

Smith et al. (2020) – Salmon Habitat Quality ss habitat quality for chinook salmon in interior British Columbia. Sites with embeddedness below 25% support significantly hig er stream temperatures. Removal of streamside conifers raises maximum daily temperatures by 3–7 degrees Celsius in small c sent the most pervasive barrier to salmon passage in the study watershed. Of 1,200 assessed crossings, 38% were rated as fi